Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group and Region Focus)

Water Related Disaster Risk Reduction

Course Number: 202311703-J001

Course Period: May 12 - June 15, 2024

NOTE: Adobe Acrobat Reader DC and Google Chrome are recommended as PDF viewer. JAWS and NVDA are recommended as screen reader.

NOTE: Depending on the circumstances, some or all of the program periods may be changed or cancelled after the application has been accepted.

How do we reduce water related disaster risk?

Gain insight to an essence of making policies and implementing measures on flood control and flood risk reduction from the experiences in Japan.

Outline

This program is designed for administrative officials responsible for water related disaster risk reduction, flood control, sediment control and river basin management.

Japan has many steepest rivers in the world, and lectures and exercises will be offered by the professionals in the said fields, such as the Ministry of Land, Infrastructure, Transport and Tourism of Japan.

Participants can enhance the abilities to formulate measures and measures to reduce the damage in their own countries by learning about Japan's long accumulated experiences in river planning and improvements.

JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Program (KCCP)

The Japanese Cabinet released the Development Cooperation Charter in June 2023, stated that “In its development cooperation, Japan has maintained the spirit of jointly creating things that suit partner countries while respecting ownership, intentions and intrinsic characteristics of the country concerned based on a field oriented approach through dialogue and collaboration. It has also maintained the approach of building reciprocal relationships with developing countries in which both sides learn from each other and grow and develop together.” We believe that this ‘Knowledge Co-Creation Program’ will serve as a foundation of mutual learning process.

For What?

Background

Water related disasters have caused serious damage worldwide in recent years. Followed by rapid global warming, it is expected that climate change will further aggravate the impacts of those disasters, particularly in developing countries. There is a pressing need for those countries to enhance their knowledge and capacities for effective flood risk reduction in order to confront water related disasters and mitigate the damage.

Japan has long accumulated its know-how on flood control by structural measures in the past experience. Japan's knowledge and approaches could be a help for developing countries.

Objectives

The program aims to strengthen participants' own capabilities to make/develop policies and implement measures to reduce water related disaster risk through learning policies and systems on flood control in Japan.

To Whom?

Job Areas and Organizations

This program is designed for Central or local government organizations responsible for water related disaster risk reduction, flood control, sediment control, or watershed management.

The applying organization with the best intention to utilize the opportunity of this program will be highly valued in the selection.

Targeted Countries

Algeria, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Brazil, Democratic Republic of the Congo, Honduras, India, Mongolia, Papua New Guinea, Republic of South Africa, Serbia, Sri Lanka, and Viet Nam

JICA and Capacity Development

Technical cooperation is people-to-people cooperation that supports partner countries in enhancing their comprehensive capacities to address development challenges by their own efforts. Instead of applying Japanese technology per se to partner countries, JICA's technical cooperation provides solutions that best fit their needs by working with people living there. In the process, consideration is given to factors such as their regional characteristics, historical background, and languages. JICA does not limit its technical cooperation to human resources development; it offers multi-tiered assistance that also involves organizational strengthening, policy formulation, and institution building.

Implementation methods of JICA's technical cooperation can be divided into two approaches. One is overseas cooperation by dispatching experts and volunteers in various development sectors to partner countries; the other is domestic cooperation by inviting participants from developing countries to Japan. The latter method is the Knowledge Co-Creation Program, formerly called Training Program, and it is one of the core programs carried out in Japan. By inviting officials from partner countries and with cooperation from domestic partners, the Knowledge Co-Creation Program provides technical knowledge and practical solutions for development issues in participating countries.

The Knowledge Co-Creation Program (Group & Region Focus) has long occupied an important place in JICA operations. About 400 pre-organized courses cover a wide range of professional fields, ranging from education, health, infrastructure, energy, trade and finance, to agriculture, rural development, gender mainstreaming, and environmental protection. A variety of programs is being customized by the different target organizations to address the specific needs, such as policy-making organizations, service provision organizations, as well as research and academic institutions. Some programs are organized to target a certain group of countries with similar developmental challenges.

Japanese Development Experience

Japan, as the first non-Western nation to become a developed country, built itself into a country that is free, peaceful, prosperous and democratic while preserving its tradition. Japan will serve as one of the best examples for our partner countries to follow in their own development.

From engineering technology to production management methods, most of the know-how that has enabled Japan to become what it is today has emanated from a process of adoption and adaptation, of course, has been accompanied by countless failures and errors behind the success stories.

Through Japan's progressive adaptation and application of systems, methods and technologies from the West in a way that is suited to its own circumstances, Japan has developed a storehouse of knowledge not found elsewhere from unique systems of organization, administration and personnel management to such social systems as the livelihood improvement approach and governmental organization. It is not easy to apply such experiences to other countries where the circumstances differ, but the experiences can provide ideas and clues useful when devising measures to solve problems.

JICA, therefore, would like to invite as many leaders of partner countries as possible to come and visit us, to mingle with the Japanese people, and witness the advantages as well as the disadvantages of Japanese systems, so that integration of their findings might help them reach their developmental objectives.

This information pertains to one of the JICA Knowledge Co-Creation Programs (Group & Region Focus) of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) implemented as part of the Official Development Assistance of the Government of Japan based on bilateral agreement between both Governments.
